Apology wall will live on

City is working with the Bay to preserve and display the plywood panels filled with citizens' messages of hope and support following the Stanley Cup riot

▶ Heather Esau writes "I love Vancouver" on the makeshift apology wall at the Bay yesterday.

Vancouver plans to preserve the messages of hope and civic spirit scrawled on plywood panels covering up damaged windows at the Bay following Wednesday's Stanley Cup riot.

Coun. Heather Deal said the Bay has been working closely with the city to save them. The city still has no detailed plans, she added, but is welcoming input from the public on where they would like to see the panels.

"It is so important that this becomes part of the public record of how the city has managed this last very difficult week," Deal said. "It's part of the celebration of who we really are, and is part of making sure the world knows that we're not defined by the negative things that happened on Wednesday."

The city's cultural staff and engineers, Vancouver Museum, and the Bay are working together and looking at where they could publicly display the boards. But Deal said the panels will certainly be kept in the Vancouver Archives in the long term.

More than 1,000 people have already signed a petition asking city hall to preserve the most recognized symbol of support and solidarity after the horrific events of the riot.

"This shouldn't go to waste," said Heather Esau, who was signing the wall yesterday. "(They can put it) outside the art gallery because it's a good place for people to always come see things, and it is art in a sense."

Vancouverite Aaron Lau said the boards need to stay in the downtown core, where they can be put up as a monument because the panels serve as a "beacon of hope" and symbolize what Vancouver is really about.

"(It's meant) to remind ourselves that, as Vancouverites, we as a whole are stronger than the few."

More than a million riot photos sent to police

Vancouver police have received more than one million photos and more than 1,000 hours of video following Wednesday's riot, CBC News reports.

So far, only a handful of people have been charged. And it's unknown how many people could eventually end up in court.

Two pot bears destroyed

Conservation officers have had to kill two of nearly 30 black bears that had been trained to wander the grounds of a B.C. marijuana grow-op.

Boundary Conservation Insp. Aaron Canuel said the two bears were destroyed because they repeatedly approached backyard decks in Christina Lake, about 500 kilometres east of Vancouver.

The bears had been trained to eat dog food and were found as RCMP investigated the suspected marijuana grow-op in the Boundary region last year.

Allen Piche pleaded guilty in March to feeding dangerous wildlife, an offence under the Wildlife Act. He and several others still face charges related to the grow-op.

VPD sees the love from locals

In the wake of Wednesday's riot, Vancouverites continue to express their civic pride, including writing notes on the plywood sheets covering the windows on Georgia Street and pasting thank-you notes on a VPD cruiser.

Public anger rages on

- Public out to shame people identified in riot photos
- Youth's family forced from home because of hostile backlash

MATT KIELTYKA
@METRONEWS.CA

The public will not ease up as the shaming of Vancouver rioters continues to pick up steam.

Yesterday, media discovered that the family of 17-year-old Maple Ridge resident Nathan Kotylak had to leave their home because of the intense backlash that followed the youth's apology for allegedly taking part in the riot.

Kotylak, photographed trying to light a shirt on fire near a police cruiser's gas tank, turned himself in to police Friday and went public Saturday with an emotional apology.

"There have been threats made online and people posted their address," said Kotylak's lawyer, Bart Findlay. "They feared for their safety so are no longer at the home."

Findlay said Kotylak's apology was "heartfelt" and that the youth has missed his high school convocation and been suspended from the Canadian junior national water polo league, on top of whatever criminal charges await.

"What he did was utterly wrong. He was remorseful from the very start," said the lawyer. "It's a difficult time for him."

Findlay said it's ironic to see the mob mentality that spurred the riots on Wednesday now take root online as perpetrators are identified and targeted by the public.

The head of Simon Fraser University's criminology department doesn't expect the crusade to end soon.

"The outrage is so strong that people don't really care too much about (hurting people's livelihoods)," said Robert Gordon.

"It's a question of just deserts. It's not over — the shaming process can be more effective than the criminal system for some people."

Gordon said the criminal system will still have a strong role to play when it comes to punishing rioters.

People power drives Van's Car-Free Festival

Thumbing their noses at the grey skies, Vancouverites hit the streets by the thousands yesterday for the seventh-annual Car-Free Day.

Stores, restaurants, artisans and performers took part in neighbourhood celebrations on Commercial Drive, the West End, Main Street and in Kitsilano, each community with its own distinctive flavour.

"Even on a day like today, when the weather's not that great, lots of people still come out to have a good time on the streets," said Gary Schilling, co-ordinator of the festival in the West End.

This year's theme is Driven by People Power.

"Car-Free Day is a grassroots movement that really engages people in their communities," said Karen Reed, volunteer co-ordinator of the Commercial Drive festival.

No kidding: More than 600 volunteers and performers helped pull it all together.

Like mother, like son

Betty Fox gave us Terry, and an extraordinary legacy of her own

MATT KIELTYKA/METRO FILE

▶ Betty Fox

Betty Fox, the mother of one of Canada's most beloved heroes, who nurtured Terry Fox's legacy into one of international action and inspiration in the fight against cancer, has died. Fox had been seriously ill and living in a hospice.

For more than three decades, Betty Fox kept her son's memory alive by organizing runs and raising funds. Terry Fox, who lost part of his leg to cancer in 1977, set out to raise funds for research by running across Canada in his 1980 Marathon of Hope.

Initially, Betty said she was opposed to the plan, and she and Terry quarrelled. "It was a stupid thing to want to do," she recalled in 2005. "Really stupid."

However, the two reconciled and, on April 12, 1980, Terry began his marathon. He was forced to end it 143 days later, when his cancer returned. He died on June 28, 1981, at 22.

The Fox family, including Betty, carried on with his goal to raise funds for research. On Sept. 13, 1981, about 300,000 Canadians took part in the first Terry Fox Run. It raised $3.5 million.

In 1988, Betty and her other son, Darrell, set up the Terry Fox Foundation. It has raised more than $550 million for cancer research in 28 countries through annual Terry Fox Runs.

RECORD BREAKING

Man, son pull two trucks

A Cobourg, Ont., strongman has pulled off another world record, but this time he had a little help from his son.

Reverend Kevin Fast and his 18-year-old son Jacob set the Guinness World Record for heaviest vehicle pulled by two people on Saturday.

They pulled two fire trucks 30 metres down Queen Street in Cobourg in 38 seconds as hundreds of people cheered. The trucks together weighed more than 72 tonnes.

The event was a fundraiser was for Habitat for Humanity.

Female suicide up in army

Groundbreaking research by the Canadian Forces, Statistics Canada and Veterans Affairs has shown an increase in the number of suicide deaths in female service members between the ages of 40 and 44.

Researchers can't explain the increase, but say it involves a small number of women over a 35-year period. There were 37 suicides for women in all age groups.

The road to Zangabad is lined with graves and for years was littered with mines, but for Canadian troops it is memory lane.

The place they fought over so many years was quietly handed over to the Americans yesterday as their withdrawal from Kandahar hit full stride.

Alpha Company 1st Battalion Royal 22e Regiment, which rolled into the notorious Taliban redoubt as part of NATO's major offensive last fall, pulled back to Kandahar Airfield. "Au revoir, Zangabad," the radio crackled as the last Canadian light armoured vehicles rolled out. The U.S. Stryker unit knows it's taking over a tough neighbourhood, one that has been quiet despite being into the Taliban's fighting season.

Reaching Africa's highest peak is difficult enough. Doing so without use of your own legs is a challenge few would attempt.

But 26-year-old Calgary soldier Mark Fuchko is used to taking adversity head on.

"He's pretty determined, slightly stubborn," chuckled his father, Jack Fuchko. "He's climbed lots of mountains. This is just another one."

Jack's comments refer to years of difficult rehabilitation Mark has endured after suffering critical injuries on duty in Afghanistan's Kandahar province. He lost both legs in March 2008 but began walking again before the year was out.

Fuchko's focus now is on aiding others in similar situations. He and other participants on the Kilimanjaro Climb hope to raise $575,000 to purchase a computerized navigation system for the Orthopedic Surgery Centre at Edmonton's Royal Alexandra Hospital. The group plans to set off Aug. 8 and climb six hours a day to the summit Mount Kilimanjaro five days later.

"It's going to be a challenge for sure," Fuchko said. "I think I have got the tools and the support network to succeed."

CRTC to address digital content

Independent operators voice concerns at hearing about anti-competitive behaviour in mobile market

With more and more TV content in Canada being delivered online through mobile devices such as smartphones and tablets, Canadian regulators open hearings this week on possible measures to ensure a level playing field for service providers.

New wireless company Public Mobile says it wants to ensure an equal opportunity for all players even if it doesn't currently offer such services for its mobile phone customers.

"We're interested in potentially expanding our set of services and making sure that if we moved into things that were closer to broadcast distribution, we would have the flexibility to compete in those markets," said Public Mobile executive Bruce Kirby.

"You'd get different content depending on which cellphone you subscribe to ... to us that makes no sense."
KEN ENGLEHART, SENIOR VICE-PRESIDENT, ROGERS

Public Mobile will appear before the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission in Gatineau, Que., today to make its case for fairness in a field dominated by major players such as Shaw Communications Inc. and BCE, which own most of the country's television broadcasting assets.

In recent years, much of Canada's private broadcasting sector has been swallowed up by a handful of big companies. Shaw, for example, has bought 11 local Global TV stations across Canada and a group of specialty stations such as HGTV and Showcase.

After approving the Shaw sale last fall, the CRTC said it was worried that consolidation could produce anti-competitive behaviour and announced it would hold the hearings.

INNOCENCE LOST ON A NIGHT IN JUNE

URBAN COMPASS

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO VANCOUVER

By now, you've probably overdosed on pundit prescriptions for relief from the riot.

And is there anyone among us who has not yet posted his or hers heartfelt comments out loud, online, on plywood, on Post-its, on police cars?

If democracy is all about freedom of expression, then our democracy is safe, as all 2.5 million residents of Greater Vancouver, it seems, have freely expressed themselves.

So what can I possibly add? Well, how about this: It will never be the same. We just got kicked out of the Garden of Eden.

We had it all: The world's most livable city. Lululemon Land. But then, from within our midst, rose a kind of preening terrorist who did his best to spoil it for everyone else in order to wallow in his badass rep for 15 minutes of social-media-inspired notoriety. It worked beyond his wildest dreams. I say "his" because I didn't see any women kicking in store windows or standing on top of burning cars braying with intoxicated, testosterone-fuelled bravado.

"So what can I possibly add? Well, how about this: It will never be the same. We just got kicked out of the Garden of Eden."

Although I did see quite a few laughing and taking smartphone photos of their heroes as they acted out their barbarian fantasies with no concern for the consequences or the damage done.

I've heard them called many things: But know them for what they are — terrorists. They pose triumphantly amidst the destruction, and it's only because of luck and the much-maligned Vancouver police that there wasn't more of it.

These people are just as rootless, pointless and lost as the dangerous fools who answer the call to jihad and other notions of mass destruction. It doesn't matter that they were born and fostered in paradise. They can find the flimsy excuses to stoke their anger and justify their crimes anywhere, regardless of the banquet of opportunities laid on their table.

I'll leave the psychology to others. I need a little time to accept that they lifted the lid on the Apocalypse and gave us here in Vancouver a little peek.

So that's what it looks like.

It's now impossible to deny that it can happen here, too, where, even if it looks pretty, the layer of civilization is just about an inch deep. Nowhere is safe. Just ask the people in Bosnia.

So I don't have any quick prescriptions. Take these words and you'll feel better in the morning? No, you won't and you know it — it will never be the same. Every time you walk by the Bay or any of those other shiny symbols of peace and prosperity, how will you be able to think about them as anything other than targets?

What else can I say? How about this: It was nice while it lasted?

Worth mentioning

DUBAI, United Arab Emirates. A Saudi woman defiantly drove through the nation's capital while others brazenly cruised by police patrols in the first forays of a campaign that hopes to ignite a road rebellion against the male-only driving rules in the ultraconservative kingdom.

It was a rare grassroots challenge to the Western-backed Saudi monarchy as it tries to ride out the Arab world's wave of change, and a lesson in how the uprisings are taking root in different ways. In this case, the driver's seat was turned into a powerful platform for women's rights Friday in a country where women have almost no political voice.

"We've seen that change is possible," said Maha al-Qahtani. She said she drove for 45 minutes around the capital, Riyadh, with her husband in the passenger seat. "This is Saudi women saying, 'This is our time to make a change.'"

About 40 women took part in Friday's show of defiance. No arrests or violence were reported, though al-Qahtani was later ticketed for driving without a licence.

Freeloaders not allowed in space

The billionaire businessman behind Virgin Galactic says William Shatner, and other celebrities, shouldn't expect any free rides into space.

The space tourism enterprise is already taking reservations for flights, which could begin next year.

But it's become clear that the actor who played Captain James T. Kirk, perhaps the world's most famous fictional spaceman, is not among the 440 people from 40 countries planning to go up.

"William Shatner has said that he's scared to go into space and it's quite ironic really when you think of his career," company founder Sir Richard Branson told The Canadian Press. "And, like most celebrities, he would like a freebie."

The cost of a seat is $200,000 US.

The 80-year-old actor recently admitted he did not want to boldly go anywhere beyond the Earth's atmosphere.

Branson suggested the Star Trek actor is in the minority. "Most people are unlike William Shatner. I would say nine out of 10 people — if they could afford it — would love to go into space." THE CANADIAN PRESS

All that glitters at MMVAs

Co-host Selena Gomez and boyfriend Justin Bieber steal show
Performers include Avril Lavigne, Bruno Mars, Simple Plan

Lady Gaga won two awards and provided a double shot of her trademark edgy, eccentric stage theatrics at last night's MuchMusic Video Awards — but it was a surprise appearance from beloved teen-pop star Justin Bieber that really sent fans into a frenzy.

"I want to say thank you so much to all my fans, you guys are amazing," Bieber said as he accepted his first award of the evening, international video by a Canadian, which he shared with Toronto rapper Drake.

"I love you Toronto."

And Toronto loved him right back — but it was his relationship with Selena Gomez that dominated this night.

The teens' budding partnership has been the subject of much tabloid fascination, and the couple didn't mind encouraging the chatter with a series of coy on-camera appearances.

It began during Bieber's red-carpet entrance, when he was asked which performers he was excited to see.

"I am most excited to see Selena perform tonight — I like her song, it's a great song," said Bieber, clad in a pink blazer, white graphic T-shirt and jeans, with a pink scarf hanging from his back pocket.

Gomez, too, made some not-so-subtle references to her relationship to the teen titan.

"You guys may not know this, but I love everything about Canada," she winked in her opening monologue, looking grown up in a white top, abbreviated black shorts and red high heels.

"Hockey, I play. Back bacon? I just ate some backstage. And it's just fun to say 'Saskatchewan.'

"Basically, I love Canada."

Moments later, she presented Bieber with his first award.

"Selena? Nice to meet you, I'm Justin," he said with a grinning Drake standing next to him.

"You're very beautiful. Maybe we could go out sometime?"

All that PG-rated sweetness stood in stark contrast to the boundaries-testing raunch conjured by Gaga, the always-outlandish pop provocateur who tried to top her buzzed-about MMVAs performance from two years ago.

Back then, Gaga took the stage for a medley of her hits with a gaggle of barely dressed dancers and a large model of a New York subway car.

After much carefully choreographed weirdness, she closed that evening by posing with a metal bustier shooting sparks into the night air.

The five-time Grammy winner began this year's show with a relatively tame take on her new single The Edge of Glory, during which she scaled a three-storey fire escape clad in a studded leather jumpsuit, her hair coloured bright turquoise.

But her closing performance is where things got, well, hairy.

Singing Born This Way, Gaga emerged from a plastic cocoon clad in an elaborate outfit of black feathers. She soon shed that, and strutted around the stage with tufts of fake bright blue hair positioned under her arms and over the crotch of her black pants.

Box office

Ryan Reynolds is the latest superhero to rule the weekend box office. Green Lantern debuted at No. 1 with $52.7 million, a fair but unremarkable opening stacked up against other comic-book adaptations. The previous weekend's top flick, Super 8, slipped to No. 2 with $21.3 million.

The divorce syndrome

Earlier this month, researcher Hyun Sik Kim of the University of Wisconsin-Madison, released an eye-opening study Children of divorced parents often fall behind their classmates in math and social skills We talk to Kim about the possible long-term impact

SAM CASTONE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS

THINKSTOCK.COM

▶ "Children of divorce would not want others to know," researcher Hyun Sik Kim says.

You studied children during the first two years after the divorce. Why is that period so crucial?
I studied that period mainly due to data availability — information was available only up to spring of fifth grade, although now, information up to eighth grade is available, which enables me to extend my analyses. But one of the main controversies around divorce is whether children of divorce catch up with children from intact families some time after divorce. That's why it was very important to examine development of children of divorce after divorce occurs.

What surprised you the most?
That I failed to find negative impacts of divorce in the pre-divorce stage. People tend to think that couples go through intense marital conflict before they decide to divorce — otherwise why choose to divorce? And it's widely accepted that children under parents' marital discord experience developmental setbacks, such as retardation in cognitive skills and high frequency of problem behaviours. However, my study finds that there is no differential growth in the pre-divorce stage.

Yet you found their social skills were stunted?
I found that children of divorce lagged behind children from intact families in the growth of interpersonal social skills in the during-divorce stage. Why, I can only speculate. One possibility is that children of divorce go through emotional problems, which is consistent with my finding that children of divorce experienced problems in internalizing their problem behaviours. Another reason may be related to stigma attached to parental divorce, so that children of divorce would not want others to know their own situations, which may lead to less frequent interactions with others. It should also be added that these behaviours were reported by teachers.

Do you have any good news for children of divorce?
I found that development of children of divorce did not worsen in the post-divorce stage even though they did not catch up with children from intact families. In other words, children of divorce developed as similarly as children from intact families in the post-divorce stage.

Divorce is so common these days. Do you think, eventually, anti-social behaviour and low math scores will be the norm for most kids? In other words, will we have to redefine what we expect from children?
This is really a hard question to answer from my study. One very important finding in my study is that children from intact families suffer more compared to children of divorce if the former children were in families plagued by marital conflicts. In this case, we can predict positive effects of divorce for those children. But remember, I just examined children two years after divorce. I cannot at all predict how children of divorce develop until they become adults.

Rising trends

The American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers often polls its members about what they've seen or done lately. Here's what they said.

- 81% Of those polled said they use social media evidence (like Facebook posts) to help win a divorce case for clients.
- 48% Have seen a spike in couples going to court, rather than settling civilly.
- 40% saw a downturn in their business three years back, when the recession hit and folks put divorces on hold.

Say 'cheese' in the kitchen

This uniquely Canadian Maple Cheddar Spread and Classic Swiss Cheese Fondue are great choices for appetizers when entertaining guests

BOTH PHOTOS: THE CANADIAN PRESS H/Q

▶ This recipe makes enough fondue to serve six.

Preparation:

1. Rub inside of fondue pot with garlic clove. Pour in wine and bring to a boil; reduce to low heat. Add Emmenthal and Gruyere cheeses. Stir gently in a figure-eight pattern to avoid lumps. Add drops of lemon juice if cheese does not blend in easily.
2. Mix together cornstarch and kirsch until smooth; stir into cheese mixture. Season with pepper and nutmeg while stirring until smooth.
3. Place fondue pot over tabletop burner and serve with bread.
4. Using fondue forks, dip bread cubes in fondue. Stir occasionally to keep fondue smooth. When fondue pot is nearly empty, layer of lightly browned cheese will form on bottom. Scrape with wooden spatula for real connoisseurs.

THE CANADIAN PRESS/ DAIRY FARMERS OF CANADA

Ingredients:

- 1 garlic clove, peeled
- 250 ml (1 cup) dry white wine
- 300 g (10 oz) Emmenthal cheese, diced
- 300 g (10 oz) Gruyere cheese, diced
- Juice of half lemon
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) cornstarch
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) kirsch
- Ground pepper and nutmeg, to taste
- 1 fresh large baguette, cubed

Maple Cheddar Spread

Preparation:

1. Using large holes of a box-cheese grater, grate apple and squeeze out juice; set grated apple aside.
2. In bowl, using hand mixer, beat cream cheese and cream until smooth. Stir in grated apple, cheese, maple syrup, chives, mustard and garlic; combine.
3. Cover and refrigerate for at least 1 hour to blend flavours. Transfer to serving container, garnish with chives and apple slices. Serve with crackers or celery.

Ingredients:

- 1 red apple, cored
- 1/2 cup (125 mL) cream cheese, softened
- 1/3 cup (75 mL) 10% half-and-half cream
- 1/2 cup (125 mL) shredded extra-old cheddar
- 1 tbsp (15 mL) pure maple syrup
- 1 tbsp (15 mL) chopped fresh chives
- 1/2 tsp (2 mL) Dijon mustard
- 1 small clove garlic
- Chives and apple slices
- Crackers or celery sticks

Turning others on to offsetting

Canadian company helping save African lives with a CO2 cuts program ◐ Find out what you can do to help

BEN KNIGHT
GREEN@METRONEWS.CA

▶ Carbon offsetting is now proving that it can make a difference.

Carbon offsets — money paid by eco-conscious companies for carbon emissions they have not been able to reduce — are now being used to save lives in the developing world.

Offsetters, a Vancouver-based provider of carbon-management solutions, has become the first Canadian company involved in offering a high-quality cookstove program in Africa.

"The big appeal of these projects is that the carbon benefits are very clear," says James Tansey, CEO of Offsetters. "The side benefits of doing this are, in some ways, even more important."

The new stoves are bound for Uganda, where most cooking is done indoors, burning wood, garbage or whatever waste materials are available. This is such a dirty method, installing the new stoves will be like removing 4,000 cars from the world's roads. The potential health benefits are startling.

"Indoor air quality is one of the largest causes of child mortality — more significant than malaria," Tansey notes. "So this project leads not only to reductions, but also very significant improvements in health and well-being."

This is green policy at its best. A world-wide effort to reduce CO2 emissions in the air — through the purchase of carbon offsets — leads directly to safer, longer lives in Africa.

"For these kinds of projects, companies that are reducing their emissions within their operations put a price on carbon," explains Tansey.

"They're paying maybe $20 a ton for the carbon emissions they can't reduce. That money is then pooled, and used to subsidize the cost of the cookstoves."

Offsets come in two kinds: a voluntary market, and one demanded by eco-friendly legislation.

"The global market is around $113-million in voluntary transactions. The regulated market, which is also something we work in — particularly in Europe — is hundreds of millions of dollars in transactions."

GREENING UP YOUR OFFICE

My office has made efforts to go green, like cutting back on air travel and recycling paper, but what about the small stuff? I'd like to know, are office supplies, like highlighters, recyclable or refillable?
Julie of Montreal

QUEEN OF GREEN

LINDSAY COULTER
GREEN@METRONEWS.CA

Highlighters might seem like small beans but it's estimated that office supplies account for 10 per cent of all landfill waste. Although many businesses are now sourcing paper with recycled content, those pens, highlighters, staplers and ink cartridges still add up.

But there's good news. Refillable highlighter brands are on the market, much like ink cartridges for photocopiers and printers.

Ask for them at your local office supply store or check on-line. Another simple way to reduce waste is to avoid over-purchasing. You should also select sustainably produced supplies.

Her age ain't nothing but a number

She's one of the MVPs of her office and is getting ready to embark on a new life adventure Oh, and she's 79

TURNING POINT

TERESA KRUZE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

They call her Dynamo Betty.

At the age of 79, Betty Ford is one of the top sales people at ArrKann RV and Trailer in Edmonton and is showing no signs of slowing down.

Ford has worked since she was 13 years old in numerous office and sales jobs.

▶ Betty Ford is showing no signs of slowing down.

She taught Dale Carnegie courses and sold high-end condos. She was 69 when a former sales manager gave her a call.

"Ford, you're dying on the vine." Betty recalls him saying. "I want you come and sell RV's with me." Now after 10 successful years at her job Betty is facing another turning point in life.

She promised ArrKann she'd stay with them until she turned 80.

With her birthday in August fast approaching she is now planning on moving to Courtney, B.C. to be closer to her family. Does that mean she'll quit work?

"I already have four job offers," Betty tells me with a chuckle. "I'm going to miss all my friends but there's a whole new adventure out there and I'm going to find it."

Go get 'em, Dynamo Betty.

Betty's advice

An Octogenarian's View on Life and Work

- I don't even understand the concept of age or retiring. I think life is an adventure and you should go with it.
- Find something you want to do and make sure you like it.
- Have confidence in yourself and be honest with others.
- Don't worry about life so much. It'll sort itself out.

Major domination by McIlroy

Irishman erases Masters collapse, wins U.S. Open in record fashion

NICK WASS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Rory McIlroy hoists the U.S. Open trophy yesterday.

Every time Rory McIlroy lined up a shot yesterday, there was some sort of record on the line, some kind of history to be made.

That was this year's U.S. Open version of suspense. There was never any doubt that the kid from Northern Ireland was going to win it.

In complete control of his emotions and his game, McIlroy never slipped. He won his first major championship by shooting a 2-under 69 at Congressional and closed his four-day onslaught at 16-under 268, eight shots ahead of Jason Day and four shots better than the U.S. Open scoring record formerly held by four players, including two named Woods and Nicklaus.

After the final tap-in, Gerry McIlroy met his son as he walked off the green.

"Happy Father's Day," the new champion said.

Happy Father's Day, indeed.

All week, McIlroy's performance was compared to Tiger Woods' 15-shot blowout at Pebble Beach in 2000.

"I was trying to go out there today and emulate him in some way," McIlroy said. "I played great for four days and I couldn't be happier."

The win comes two months after a collapse so thorough, some wondered if McIlroy could recover. He took a four-shot lead into the final day of the Masters, but after hitting his 10th tee shot near a cabin on the grounds of Augusta National, he melted down, shot 80 and finished 15th.

"I think this kid's going to have a great career. I don't think there's any question about it. He's got all the components."

GOLF LEGEND JACK NICKLAUS IN AN INTERVIEW WITH NBC

His shot on the 10th hole yesterday wasn't comparable. On the 214-yard par-3, a downhill shot over water, McIlroy knocked the ball above the hole, then watched as it stopped for a split second and started spinning backward before stopping an inch or two from the hole.

He tapped in for a birdie that got him to 17-under par at a tournament that had never seen a score lower than 12 under before Friday.

"That was the point in the round that I really felt it was mine to lose," McIlroy said.

McIlroy now owns the scoring records for 36, 54 and 72 holes at the toughest test in golf and he became only the third player to break 70 in all four rounds of the U.S. Open.

Canada's Findlay wins yet another triathlon

Edmonton's Paula Findlay edged Helen Jenkins by four seconds to win the triathlon world series event in Kitzbuehel, Austria, yesterday and extend her lead at the top of the overall standings.

Findlay finished in 2:05:52.

"I'm thrilled again. Wow, that was a real hard race. I was running maximum the whole way," she said.

Findlay had emerged from the swim more than a minute down on the leaders, Jenkins and Sarah Haskins. She caught Jenkins at the end of the fourth bike leg.

Findlay leads the world series with 2,400 points. The win is her fifth in six races over the last 11 months. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bruins feted at Fenway

The Boston Red Sox honoured the Stanley Cup champion Bruins with a 15-minute on-field ceremony before yesterday's baseball game against the Milwaukee Brewers.

Members of the Bruins, who captured the cup with a Game 7 win over Vancouver Wednesday, rode in on four Duck Boats. Red Sox employees waved Bruins flags in a ring around the upper seating park.

When they finished the loop on the boats, the players got off and — led by captain Zdeno Chara carrying the cup — walked into the infield for a ceremonial first pitch to members of the Red Sox.

Miguel Cairo's two-run blast good enough for win against Toronto

▶ Jay Bruce steals second base ahead of the tag by Aaron Hill at Great American Ball Park yesterday in Cincinnati.

Miguel Cairo hit a two-run homer in the sixth off Carlos Villanueva, stopping Cincinnati's streak of 16 scoreless innings, and the Reds got their first win over an American League team this season, beating the Toronto Blue Jays 2-1 yesterday.

The Reds had dropped their previous five interleague games against Cleveland and Toronto.

Bronson Arroyo (6-6) ended his streak of dismal days against the Blue Jays.

REDS	BLUE JAYS

The right-hander gave up five hits, including Aaron Hill's homer, in a season-high eight innings. Arroyo had lost his last three starts and five straight decisions against Toronto.

Villanueva (4-1) lost for the first time since Aug. 17, 2009, with Milwaukee, where he was a reliever the last two years.

Francisco Cordero pitched the ninth for his 15th save in 17 tries. He moved one ahead of Jeff Montgomery for sole possession of 19th on the career list with 305 saves. Hall of Famer Goose Gossage is next at 310.

First baseman Joey Votto had three hits after failing to reach base in the first two games of the series. The Toronto native received the Lou Marsh Trophy before Saturday's game. The award honours him as Canada's top athlete for 2010. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four men primed and ready for Wimbledon

Having won four of the past five Grand Slam tournaments and 10 in all, Rafael Nadal was asked on the eve of Wimbledon about quickly closing in on Roger Federer's record of 16.

Nadal cut in to clarify.

"Very close? No. I am very far," Nadal said yesterday. "Six is a lot."

Perhaps. Still, the 25-year-old Spaniard is looking more and more like someone who will be able to challenge, if not surpass, whatever Federer's final tally is. As long as a couple of other guys don't get in the way, that is.

For years, Federer and Nadal were the men to beat at major tournaments. These days, they're joined at what is a competitive and compelling top of the game by a pair of 24-year-olds, Novak Djokovic and Andy Murray.

That Big Four filled out the semifinals at the French Open two weeks ago, and most everyone expects them to be the final four standing in a fortnight's time at Wimbledon, where play begins today with Nadal as the defending champion. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. through to semis with win over Jamaica

MITCHELL LAYTON/GETTY IMAGES

Jermaine Jones scored in the 49th minute and Clint Dempsey added a goal in the 80th in the United States' 2-0 victory over Jamaica yesterday in the CONCACAF Gold Cup quarter-finals.

The United States will face Panama in Wednesday's semifinal in Houston.

Jones fired a shot from outside the penalty area and Jamaica defender Jermaine Taylor stuck out his foot, deflecting the ball past goalkeeper Donovan Ricketts.

Taylor came out on the losing end of another exchange nearly 20 minutes later. Jones beat the defence in the middle of Jamaica's half and was about to break free for a 1-on-1 chance when Taylor tackled him from behind, earning a red card. With Jamaica down a man, Dempsey added the second goal with 10 minutes to play. Juan Agudelo's cross found Dempsey at the left side of the goal. Ricketts came out to contest, and Dempsey avoided the tackle and put the ball in the open net. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Send a KISS

You can now post your kiss, and read even more kisses, online at metronews.ca/kiss.

true lov, you are my true love..i live just for you..you are the most beautiful woman i ever seen..no wonder i can't get enough of you..just stay strong and no stress at all..just relax..i love you and miss you..have a great day my love. kiss and hugs on your way. LOSTINYOURLOVE

Nikita, Last Friday after work, the heat, the salad chicken, the ice capp, and the kisses make me feel love like never loved before. You ought to know by now how much I love you. Cant wait for Monday so I can see you again MIKE

Vince
Hope u are enjoying your daily read of the Metro...just wanted to say I love u and miss u sooo much. I can't wait until we see each other again. Love u forever xoxoxo LISA

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Make your own troubles seem smaller today by helping family and friends deal with their difficult issues.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 You must not let personal feelings cloud your judgment today.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 What seemed simple yesterday will seem outrageously complicated today. Don't lose your cool.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 If you actually listen to criticism today, you might learn something that could save you future grief.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Is there something you secretly feel guilty about? Do something about it.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 Strive to maintain an open and optimistic attitude. It's about perspective, make yours wide and deep.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Sometimes you just have to follow your instincts, so trust them — and act.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 The more you try to move in one direction today, the more events will conspire to push you in another. Perhaps you should take the hint.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 What happens today will be removed from your usual experience. It may be difficult to make sense of.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Something will happen today that will encourage you to become a more tolerant human being.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You may find that your powers of persuasion let you down today.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. If a friend suggests you do something unethical today, turn him or her down flat. SALLY BROMPTON

TIP #4 FOR SELLING YOUR GOLD

Read small print carefully. Many sellers advertise their prices only for customers who sell more than $10,000 worth of gold. If you are selling less than this quantity, they will pay you much less.
